Season's Greetings!

TV SPECIAL PLANNED

WBAL-TV in Baltimore, has done a 30-minute special on Gallaudet College featuring Rita Corey. The program, "Rita Can You Hear Me?", was first produced as a five part series aired on the evening news on Channel 11 in October.

The series was very popular with viewers and the producers decided to combine the five segments into a half hour program which will be captioned. The program is tentatively scheduled for New Year's Day.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE PLANNED

The College will host a special conference to explore the problems and concerns of deaf women on March 7, 8 and 9. Chaired by Gerilee Gustason, the conference will focus on a number of topics including leadership training, law and women, marriage contracts, managing a family and a career and women in literature.

CONGRESSMAN FINISHES SIGN CLASS

Representative Thomas R. Harkin of Iowa's fifth district has completed a beginning sign language class at Gallaudet.

Harkin decided to take the course because he has a deaf brother and his district encompasses Council Bluffs, site of the Iowa School for the Deaf. The first Congressman to enroll in the College's Sign Language Program, Harkin said that he will probably attend a second class this spring.

TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES

Decision making and problem solving, basics of computer use, time management, affirmative action, and self defense are among the many interesting and practical topics which will be covered in a series of staff development programs which will be offered this winter and spring by the Office of General Services.

A complete listing of program offerings and application forms are included in the Training and Development Opportunities catalog which has been distributed to all College personnel.

To give everyone ample time to review the programs, the registration deadline has been extended to January 6. You are encouraged to return your application form as soon as possible to insure you a place in the sessions of your choice.

When completing the registration forms, please note that there is one form single session seminar series listed on pages 6-21 and a second for the conferences and workshops described on pages 21-25.

For additional information, contact Bonne Muller.
